Chapter 3

Constructors And Destructors

3.1 Introduction:

- C++ provides special member function called as constructor which enables an object to initialize itself when it is created.
- This is known as automatic initialization of objects.
- C++ provides another member function called as destructor that destroys the object when they are no longer required.

3.2 Concept of constructor:

- Constructor:

A constructor is a special member function whose task is to allocate the memory and initialize the data members of the object.

- The constructor is called whenever an object of its class is created.
- Syntax:

```
class class_name
{
    // data members;
    // member functions;
public:
    class_name()    //constructor
    {
        //body of constructor
    }
    //member functions;
```

- Eg:

```

class Time
{
    int hr;
    int min;
public:
    Time() // Constructor
        hr=0; min=0;
    }

```

- Characteristics of Constructor:

- They should be declared in public section.
- They are invoked automatically when the object of its class is created.
- Constructor is special member function which has same name of class name.
- Constructor doesn't return any data type not even void.
- They can not be inherited.
- They can not be virtual.
- they can have default argument.

- Constructors can be called in two ways:

- Implicit call
- Explicit call

- Implicit call:

- Syntax:

class_name obj_name(arg. list) ;

- Eg.

```
Time t1 (1, 20);
```

- Explicit call:

- Syntax:

```
class_name obj_name = class_name(arg. list);
```

- Eg.

```
Time t1 = Time(1, 20);
```

3.3 Types of Constructor:

- There are different types of Constructor:

1) Default Constructor

2) Parameterized Constructor

3) Copy Constructor

- Default constructor:

- The constructor that do not take any argument is called as Default Costructor.

- It has no parameters.

- If the constructor is not present in the class , the compiler itself provides its own default constructor to the class.

- Syntax:

```
class class_name
{
    // data members;
    // member functions;
public:
    class_name() //default constructor
    {
        //body of constructor
    }
}
```

```
    }
    //member functions;
```

- Eg:

```
class Time
{
    int hr;
    int min;
public:
    Time() // default Constructor
        hr=0;
        min=0;
    }
```

- Program:

```
//Default Constructor Demo

#include <iostream.h>
class Demo
{

    int x;
    int y;

public:
    Demol() //Default constructor
    {
        cout << "In Default constructor:";
        x=y=0;
    }
```

```

void display()
{
    cout << "Demo constructs x,y value::" <<
    A.x << " , " << A.y << "\n";
}
void main()
{
    Demo A; // default constructor is called
    A.display();
}

```

Output:

In Default constructor:

Demo constructs x,y value:: 0 , 0

- Parameterized Constructor:
- The constructor that takes arguments is called as parameterized constructor.
- Syntax:

```

class class_name
{
    // data members;
    // member functions;
public:
    class_name(arg. list) //Parameterized constructor
    {
        //body of constructor
    }
}

Understanding Public Relations Module 2

Ant. Prof(Ms) Bhavika Khadepkar – Sheth N.K.T.T. College, Thane

Meaning

Public relations (PR) is the practice of deliberately managing the release and spread of information between an individual or an organization (such as a business, government agency, or a nonprofit organization) and the public. Public relations (PR) and publicity differ in that PR is controlled internally, whereas publicity is not controlled and controlled by external parties. Public relations may include an organization or individual gaining exposure to their audiences using topics of public interest and news items that do not require direct payment. This differentiates it from publicizing as a form of marketing communications. Public relations aims to create or obtain coverage for clients for free, also known as 'earned media', rather than paying for marketing or advertising. But in the same, advertising is also a part of broader PR activities.

Q.II Attempt the Followings.

1. What is internet? Explain any four applications of internet.

Ans: The Internet is the global system of interconnected computer networks that use the Internet protocol suite (TCP/IP) to link devices worldwide.

It is a network of networks that consists of private, public, academic, business, and government networks of local to global scope, linked by a broad array of electronic, wireless, and optical networking technologies.

Applications:

a. Search engine :-

It can be used to search anything and everything. Most popular search engines are google and yahoo searches.

b. Research :-

Research papers are present online which helps in the researcher doing a literature review.

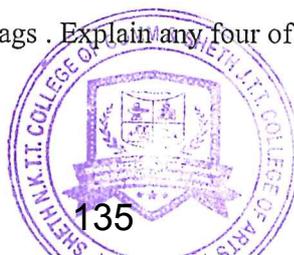

c. Communication:-

This is a major role of the internet. It helps people to communicate either with the use of social networking websites or through e mails. Even chatting is a major use of the internet.

d. Studying:-

Now right from kinder garden children are exposed to internet and computers. They find many useful things to learn on the internet (though with supervision). Up to doctorate level education, people rely on internet for their education. Online educational books have even reduced the need for a library

2. Write the various HTML semantic tags . Explain any four of them.

Ans :

A semantic element clearly describes its meaning to both the browser and the developer.

- Examples of non-semantic elements:  and - Tells nothing about its content.
- Examples of semantic elements: <form>, <table>, and <article> - Clearly defines its content.
- HTML5 offers new semantic elements to define different parts of a web page:

<article>, <aside>, <details>, <figcaption>, <figure>, <footer>, <header>, <main>, , <nav>, <section>, <summary>, <time>

Tag Description

<article> : - Defines an article

<aside> :- Defines content aside from the page content

<details> :- Defines additional details that the user can view or hide

<figcaption> :- Defines a caption for a <figure> element

<figure> :- Specifies self-contained content, like illustrations, diagrams, photos, code listings, etc.

<footer> :- Defines a footer for a document or section

<header> :- Specifies a header for a document or section

<nav> :- Defines navigation links

<section> :- Defines a section in a document

3. What are events? Explain the onSubmit event with example

Ans :

An HTML event can be something the browser does, or something a user does.

Here are some examples of HTML events:

- An HTML web page has finished loading
- An HTML input field was changed
- An HTML button was clicked
- Often, when events happen, you may want to do something.

onclick : -The user clicks an HTML element

Ex.

```
<!DOCTYPE html>
```

```
<html>
```

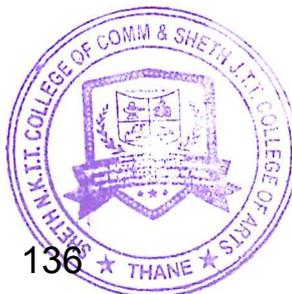

```
<body>
```

```
<button onclick="document.getElementById('demo').innerHTML=Date()">The time is?</button>
```

```

```

```
</body>
```

```
</html>
```

4. How arrays are created in PHP? Explain the different types of arrays in PHP.

Ans :

An array stores multiple values in one single variable. In php arrays are created by using array() function.

e.g. <?php

```
$cars = array("Volvo","BMW","Toyota");
```

```
?>
```

Different types of arrays are

- a. Indexed array (Numeric array) ; (explanation with example required)
- b. Associative Array : (explanation with example required)
- c. Multidimensional array : (explanation with example required)

5. Write short note on sessions in PHP.

Ans : A session is a way to store information (in variables) to be used across multiple pages.

Unlike a cookie, the information is not stored on the users computer.

When you work with an application, you open it, do some changes, and then you close it. This is much like a Session. The computer knows who you are. It knows when you start the application and when you end. But on the internet there is one problem: the web server does not know who you are or what you do, because the HTTP address doesn't maintain state.

Session variables solve this problem by storing user information to be used across multiple pages (e.g. username, favorite color, etc). By default, session variables last until the user closes the browser.

So, Session variables hold information about one single user, and are available to all pages in one application.

E.g.

```
<?php // Start the session
```

```
session_start();
```

```
?>
```

```
<!DOCTYPE html>
```

```
<html>
```

```
<body>
```

```
<?php
```

```
// Set session variables
```

```
$_SESSION["favcolor"] = "green";
```

```
$_SESSION["favanimal"] = "cat";
```

```
echo "Session variables are set.";
```

```
?>
```

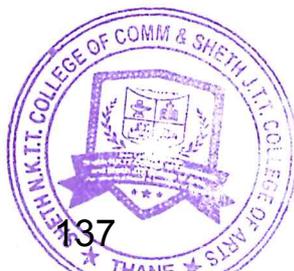

```
</body>
```

```
</html>
```

6. How to open and close a connection to MYSQL database server?

Ans:

Open a Connection to MySQL

Example (MySQLi Object-Oriented)

```
<?php
$servername = "localhost";
$username = "username";
$password = "password";
// Create connection
$conn = new mysqli($servername, $username, $password);
// Check connection if ($conn->connect_error) {
die("Connection failed: " . $conn->connect_error);
}
echo "Connected successfully";
?>
```

Close the Connection :

The connection will be closed automatically when the script ends. To close the connection before, use the following:

Example (MySQLi Object-Oriented)

```
$conn->close();
```

Example (MySQLi Procedural)

```
mysqli_close($conn);
```
